Damn it. I didn't like this one as much as the first book. I keep telling myself it was just my mood but at times I felt like I was slogging through the book.

I still loved the characters and the ghosts, so what happened? I don't know.....sigh.....

The book started off with Tiger going into some crazy rift thing following a person to see who they were and then getting attacked by wraiths. Sounds awesome right? Well, I don't know. She's trying to find out who is hurting children and that

The book started off with Tiger going into some crazy rift thing following a person to see who they were and then getting attacked by wraiths. Sounds awesome right? Well, I don't know. She's trying to find out who is hurting children and that is awesome. We find out a pretty good bit about that in this book. I'm hoping there will be a wrap up in the next book. Is this a trilogy or a regular series?

Anyway, Tiger and Jonas are helping each other again even though he doesn't like dechet's and that's what Tiger is, (you can read all about that in the first book or just read the blurb to this one) but they are good working together. And some stuff I wanted to happen did happen a little bit in this book. I hope it happens a lot in the next book!

Cat and Bear, the main ghosts, are in the book of course and I just love them so much. I love all of the ghosts they have in the book. But, cat and bear are the best! I mean the ghost thing is the whole reason I loved the first book and liked this one.

Tiger is working undercover at Winter Halo a bad place that they all assume are behind many evil things. Ha, that told you a lot right?

Either way, I will read the next book to see if this has a happy end game which I hope. This cover is also amazing because I love anything wintery looking. =)

Why did it end like this?!

Until the last 15%, it was a 3-star read.

Then, it all got interesting!

Again, I appreciated the new, interesting world and characters. Can't wait to see what's next!

IMO, though, you should start this series only after the 3rd book is out, finishing the 2nd one with nothing else to do than wonder what will happen next is agonizing!

Robin (Bridge Four)

I do and don't know what missed the mark in this for me. I honestly spent most of this book a bit bored trying to care about what is going on but just not being really investing in anything.

Tig is still the girl that can do it all. Like seriously she can do EVERYTHING make herself practically invisible, turn into smoke to go through walls, talk to ghosts, go through dimensional portals, combat fight and has some magic sexy mojo happening that makes her able to seduce men and then tease their secrets

I do and don't know what missed the mark in this for me. I honestly spent most of this book a bit bored trying to care about what is going on but just not being really investing in anything.

Tig is still the girl that can do it all. Like seriously she can do EVERYTHING make herself practically invisible, turn into smoke to go through walls, talk to ghosts, go through dimensional portals, combat fight and has some magic sexy mojo happening that makes her able to seduce men and then tease their secrets out while in bed together. So basically on top of everything else she has a magical whoo-hah and then during the sexy times she glimpses the stuff going on in her partners life.

In the first book she is intimate with someone because they had a history and then later she uses her magical whoo-hah when she finds out he isn't the man she remembers. I apparently was all but I didn't like it since the guy is a pretty good guy and she is just using him for information. I really ended up feeling bad for him overall. Yes Keri Arthur told me numerous times that cats aren't monogamous and the girl gets to decide on courting but still I wasn't in love with this entire situation.

. But now in this book she actively searched someone out to seduce for this purpose while she clearly has feeling for another man.

and there is the chance of one happening eventually between Tig and Jonas but you can tell that the author is going to ride the hell out of that sexual tension and so barely anything happens between them. Meanwhile Tig is off having sexy time with some other guy she has no connection to. It totally bugged me.

Then there is the story about the missing kids. They're kids and I want to care about them but I really don't. I have no emotional investment. None of their parents are asking questions about them, no one else in the group has a connection to any of them, there isn't a hunt on for them I just have nothing in the story to make me care about any of them. Even Penny who was saved in the last book is so off page that I don't even care about her. I think that is my biggest issue. I don't have an emotional attachment to anyone.

But I plodded through and there was one and only one surprise for me in the entire story. I enjoyed parts of the world from the first book but I really didn't get a closer look at anything in this one.

There are some very interesting things that might be happening with the Rifts but that was just briefly touched on and left incredibly vague for now and it was really the thing I was the most interested in.

In a post-apocalyptic world where a war with shifter has wiped out almost all the genetically enhanced, while A battle to still defeat the vampires continues on, Tiger, one of the enhanced, is fighting to survive. Weaving her way through the political machinations, hiding her true nature and lead by the ghosts of the war ravaged lands, Tiger now must infiltrate Winter Halo to discover who is attacking the female body guards. The plot that she uncovers leads back to what started the first devastating war.

Arthur's™ imagination and story telling is superb in this the second installation of the Outcast series. Where else can you find yourself routing on ghosts and riveted to the plot as it thickens and evolves.
